Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 03 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A rather cloudy start, but becoming increasingly bright.

Today:
A cloudy morning for many with isolated drizzly patches. Cloud will then break during the day to give fine and dry conditions with sunny spells. Temperatures down a little on Wednesday, but still warm. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Tonight:
Skies remaining mostly clear through the evening before cloud returns overnight, especially further east. Staying largely dry throughout but a risk of rain edging into the east by dawn. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Friday:
A possibility of some rain at first across easternmost parts of the region, otherwise a dry day with increasing amounts of sunshine. Maximum temperature 18 deg C (64 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Plenty of dry weather over the weekend and early next week, with sunny spells and just a few showers. Pleasantly warm, with light winds, though quite chilly in places overnight.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.